Thaw from Recent Freeze Damaging Roads in Area

MARION, Ill. (U) — Thawing weather following last month's deep freeze has caused thousands of dollars worth of damage to southern Illinois county and rural roads.

In some counties, school bus and rural mail routes have been affected by mud and holes in roads.

Counties are keeping a close watch on truck load limits to prevent worsening of road conditions.

Some school busses in Effingham and Jasper counties have been routed.

At Robinson, Township Road Commissioner Fred Schroeder says the present rural road break-through is the worst since 1951.

Williamson County Highway Supt. Fred Thane at Marion estimated the thaw will cause $100,000 damage to some 738 miles of roads over which the county has jurisdiction. Williamson County has done away with the township road system.

About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

DAYTON OBSERVATION: When some local fellows were in Dayton, Ohio, recently, Rob Davenport left the hotel and started to get in a taxi when he noticed a slight commotion at a cab right behind the one he was entering.

Seeing a policeman at the cab, Mr. Davenport asked his cab driver just what was happening.

"The driver is getting a ticket," he declared.

He then went on to explain that the cab driver had entered his cab drinking some coffee out of a paper cup. When he had finished he crumpled the cup, threw it into the street.

A police officer saw the act, went to the cab and wrote him a ticket.

The fine, Mr. Davenport's cab driver explained, is $3 for littering streets or sidewalks.

AND WHILE we're on the subject, let us turn our attention to the display table at the Harrisburg National bank, where customers may take their turn in advertising their businesses or organizations for a two-week period.

Right now there is a Dayton Rubber Co. tire display, placed there by the Gilley and Guard service station, local Dayton tire dealers.

SOME TIME BACK Richard Davenport, chairman of the local Finance committee of the Saline Valley Development Association, received a dollar in an envelop. Along with it was a letter from the sender, Mrs. Walter Allen.

She said:

"Enclosed is one dollar in money and $10,000 worth of faith in the future of the area."

"I had a hard time holding on to this dollar long enough to get it in the envelop addressed to you. I have confidence that you and the people working with you will use it wisely. I know it isn't much but if five hundred other people feel the same as I—that every little bit helps—you would be five hundred dollars closer to your goal."

"It says here on this dollar that it's legal tender for all debts public and private. I feel I owe a debt to my community; so please apply this dollar to my account."

"It won't be necessary to mail a receipt. I'll carry that in my heart with the knowledge that in a very small way I helped make this community a bigger, better place, with more opportunity to all."

Council Designates April 1-2-3 Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Days

Township Supervisor Virgil Ferrell Urges Joint Action

The Harrisburg city council last night designated April 1, 2 and 3 as Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Days for the community at a council meeting which devoted considerable time to dressing up the city and surrounding area.

Virgil Ferrell, Harrisburg township supervisor, appeared before the council in behalf of the Saline County Board of Supervisors to discuss joint action by townships and municipalities in the county regarding unsightly places.

Supervisors in townships where there are municipalities are appearing before the councils and village boards and explaining that a joint action, with uniform ordinances, are sought in the effort to get junk yard fences and other acts done for community improvement.

To Draft Uniform Law

A meeting of representatives of councils and village boards will meet with township supervisors, the state's attorney and junk and salvage dealers at a later date to draft a uniform governing law.

"It is not the intention to put a hardship on anyone," Mr. Ferrell stated. "We want the co-operation of dealers as well as the general public."

He said the cleanup, he believed, should go to the yards and other premises of everyone.

All council members agreed wholeheartedly with Mr. Ferrell's remarks and when the subject of littering streets and sidewalks came up, Mayor Claud Gibbons said he was sure there were city ordinances against littering as well as compelling the cutting of weeds and other things necessary to make the city look better.

The mayor then suggested a

Miss Carolyn Neff Commended by Merit Scholarship

Miss Carolyn Neff (Ronnie's Studio Portrait)

Miss Carolyn Neff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Neff of 214 South Webster street, Harrisburg, a senior at the Harrisburg Township high school, has been commended by the National Merit Scholarship corporation for her outstanding performance on a nationwide college aptitude test, Eltis Henson, HTHS principal, announced today.

Miss Neff was a runner up in the 1957-58 Merit Scholarship competition. She will be sent a letter of recommendation by National Merit Scholarship Corporation for use in applying to colleges.

cleanup, paint-up, fix-up campaign and the council decided that because of uncertain weather conditions it should be held up until April. The April 1, 2 and 3 dates were decided upon.

Bids Received

Other action by the council: Approval of water board action in raising sewer employees five per cent and water employees two and a half per cent was tabled by the council for further study.

Bids were received for repair and painting of the water tower. They were from John H. Greenlee Elevated Tank Service of Cherry Valley, Ill., Speelman Elevated Tank Service of Rockford, Ill., and Republic Steel Tank Co. of Lexington, Ky. The bids will be studied with action on a contract slated for the next meeting.

A new ten-year street-lighting ordinance was given first reading and placed on file for action later. All present street lights would remain at the present rate with additional lights higher. However the power bill on the stop light up-town and the flasher signal at Routes 45-13 would be included in the street lighting contract at reduced rates Group Superintendent William Hopkins stated.

Protest Street Closing

The appointment of Noah Gourley as Sunset Hill cemetery sexton, made by Commissioner Morris Darnell, was confirmed. Mr. Gourley replaces Wallace Feazel.

A delegation from Gaskins City appeared to protest the closing of a street. The council was slated to visit the site today.

Robert Bowen of West Frankfort was not given permission to operate a retail ice cream wagon in Harrisburg, as was requested. Council members pointed out the large employment at the local dairy and the numerous small dealers in Harrisburg who would be affected.

If Recession Gets Worse

Democrats Urge PWA

WASHINGTON (U) — The Senate Democratic leadership wants Congress to set up a public works administration — like the PWA Depression agency of the 1930s — for use in case the business recession worsens, it was disclosed today.

This proposal has been added to the already rolling Democratic legislative program of housing, public works and other action going beyond proposals yet heard from President Eisenhower for checking the business downturn.

Mother Tries to Blame 5-Year-Old Son for Her Jewelry Thefts

ROCKFORD, Ill. (U) — A young mother who tried to blame her little son for jewel theft today faced petty larceny charges.

Mrs. Nancy Hoover, 22, whose husband is with the Army in Germany, was accused by a friend who accidentally noticed some of her missing jewelry in the Hoover apartment during a visit. A police-woman later called on Mrs. Hoover to inquire about the $98 theft.

Police said Mrs. Hoover tried to fix the blame on her son, Ricky, 5.

But Ricky said "Mommy did it," police said. Authorities said Mrs. Hoover later broke down and confessed.

Arrest Three in Alcohol Deaths

NEW YORK (U) — Three men were arrested on murder charges today in the deaths of 25 persons from poison bootleg alcohol.

The last two victims died in New York hospitals this morning after the arrests were made, police reported.

Police said one of them, Francisco Padin, 32, Hoboken, N. J., had admitted stealing 60 gallons of wood alcohol from the chemical plant where he works and selling it for $35 a five gallon can — to small-time bootleggers in the Bronx and Manhattan.

Most of the 25 persons who have died of the lethal alcohol in the last week were Puerto Rican residents of Manhattan's Spanish Harlem slums who purchased the cheap "King Kong" liquor from neighborhood peddlers. Two deaths were Bronx residents and it was Bronx detectives who found and followed up the leads which led to today's arrests.

Several persons are still in hospitals, some in critical condition and one nearly blind from effects of the cut-rate poison.

Padin and Pedro Rodriguez, 26, a tannery worker charged with helping him distribute the alcohol, were arrested in Hoboken and booked on a homicide charge.

What to Do in Tornado Threat

If you knew a tornado was coming ten minutes from now, what would you do?

Don't wait that long to decide. Wise families already have a plan worked out. The best plan includes these simple precautions:

Open the windows on the north and east sides of the house. This will help equalize air pressure, and may save your home from destruction.

Shut off the gas and electricity. This is your best protection against fire.

Go to the cellar or southwest corner of the basement. If you have none, make arrangements NOW with your neighbor.

Remember, the purpose of a tornado warning system is to give you ten minutes to take these precautions. They could be the most valuable minutes of your life.

Boost in Water Rates Proposed At Carrier Mills

System Built in 1937; Same Rates Still in Effect

Declaring present water rates bring insufficient funds to maintain the water system and meet bond payments, members of the Carrier Mills Water board have proposed a rate increase to the Village board.

Monday evening members of both the Water board and the Village board met in the Carrier Mills village hall for an extended session reviewing the present water rates, income and expenditures, plus needed maintenance to the 20-year-old water system.

The Carrier Mills system was built in 1937, during the mayorship of the late Dr. W. H. Dean. The system is now at an age when many of the mains are beginning to spring leaks, requiring costly maintenance. The bond issue payments are also reaching their peak total, a spokesman declared.

This, added to the continuing rising costs of materials and chemicals required to operate the water system, has made it necessary to consider a rate increase to keep the system on a sound financial basis, water board members told the Village board.

There has been no increase in water rates in the history of the Carrier Mills water department, with the rates established in 1937 still effective, according to the records.

With reference to water main maintenance it was stated that within a two block area on Walnut Street six repairs on the water main had been made within a year's time. "This is a very costly operation and we can expect to have more repairs, not less, as time goes on," it was declared.

At the present time Carrier Mills' water users have a $2 monthly minimum payment, allowing the use of up to 4,000 gallons of water.

Two methods of increasing the rates were proposed to the Village board — 1. Lower the minimum monthly gallonage to 2,000 and retain the $2 minimum payment. This would not affect approximately 200 persons, users of small amounts of water each month; 2. Lower the minimum gallonage to 2,000 and increase the minimum monthly rate, which would affect all users.

Members of the Water board, appointed by the president of the Village board with the approval of the trustees, are John L. Noonan, Snowden Roper and Lefe Kirts.

Nixon Was Not Acting President During Illnesses: Eisenhower

President Says Written Agreement Is Not a Pact

WASHINGTON (U) — President Eisenhower said today that Vice President Richard M. Nixon never was acting president during the chief executive's three major illnesses.

The President told a news conference that an occasion never arose where a purely presidential decision had to be made during his heart attack in 1955, his ileitis operation in 1956 and the mild stroke last November.

But he said that if such a crisis had arisen, Nixon would have acted as president to make the decision.

The President made the statement in answer to a question about his "clear understanding" with Nixon on what should be done in case of presidential disability.

Not a Pact

He described his written understanding with Nixon as an agreement between men of good will who have faith and confidence in each other.

He sharply corrected a reporter who referred to the understanding as a pact.

The President also abruptly rejected a suggestion from a reporter that the agreement might set a bad precedent that could be taken advantage of in case the president and vice president were not men of good will.

Former President Truman and Speaker Sam Rayburn have questioned the legality of the agreement. They contend that a congressional act or a constitutional amendment is necessary.

But the President said that he believes the agreement is legal and constitutional. However, he supported a constitutional amendment.

Expected to Orbit Not Far Behind First

Second Explorer Carries Tiny Tape Recorder

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (U) — The Army launched a Jupiter-C rocket today and it climbed toward space on legs of fire, carrying a second bullet-nosed Explorer satellite expected to go into orbit not far behind the first.

It would be about two hours after the 12:28 p. m. c.s.t. firing before it would be announced from Washington whether an orbit had been achieved.

The first Explorer was fired Jan. 31 and had made 415 trips around the earth by today.

After only 27 seconds of flight the 70-foot missile carrying the new Explorer disappeared into a bank of clouds that hung some 4,000 feet over the cape and was lost to view.

But its rumble jarred beaches for fully a minute after that. Then the rocket's noise faded as it soared on toward space.

To observers, the four-stage Jupiter-C rose with such splendor it seemed almost certainly destined to hang America's second man-made "moon" in the heavens—this one to be called Explorer II, or, scientifically, "1958 Beta."

The second Explorer was launched about 45 minutes after Explorer I swept across the sky over Cape Canaveral. The second one was launched along the same 110-degree azimuth. But scientists were not sure it would go as high as the first.

Army scientists said the second 80-inch long satellite, which weighs 32.4 pounds—1.6 pounds more than Explorer I—and carries a tiny tape recorder to gather and send back scientific information, had "between 45 and 75 per cent" probability of going into orbit.

Dr. Werner von Braun, who helped develop the fearsome German rocketry of World War II and who now directs the scientific team developing U. S. missilery, was a witness to the firing.

Bad weather and mechanical difficulties last week delayed firing of the twice-unsuccessful Navy Vanguard and, exactly as happened in January, gave the Army its chance to go first. The Vanguard could go later this week.

Tracking stations in California waited tensely for the steady "beep" from space which would tell them Explorer II had made its first successful circuit of the earth.

The President's Optimism

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
President Eisenhower continues to sound optimistic notes on the 1958 business outlook, even though generally the economy hasn't yet begun to bounce back.

His insistence on taking the hopeful tack appears to annoy some people. Believing that the situation is in fact fairly gloomy, they seem to feel that the President's public utterances should stress the gloom.

Others believe that this is a highly questionable proposition.

For many decades, economists have emphasized that the worst business declines are related to a kind of contagion of fear which spreads among businessmen in all fields. An epidemic of failing confidence certainly was a prominent factor in the Great Depression of the 1930's.

In the light of this history, no President, indeed no public figure anywhere in business or government, would want willingly to encourage lack of confidence in the business community.

On the contrary, it would seem that the sanest course for responsible public men is to strive to do just the opposite: to battle to keep confidence high despite the accumulating problems of a recession.

Naturally, merely talking in hopeful tones is not all we have a right to expect from the President in a time of economic distress. In this age the government is counted upon to exert its power to reverse as many of the down-trending business factors as it may be able to influence.

This can mean not only easing credit but perhaps cutting taxes to build up consumer buying power and launching extensive public works to create jobs and put new life into the whole system.

Deciding when to take each of these steps is a delicate matter. There are many opinions, even among the experts. But Americans must assume that no administration would deliberately prolong or deepen an economic decline.

Even if no higher motive existed, events have shown that to be caught in just a mild downturn can be politically crushing.

President Eisenhower obviously is fully aware of the facts of this recession. He and his party will be judged not for their failure to preach gloom but on the effectiveness of the concrete measures they take to combat it.

Least Likely to Appear at a Summit Meeting

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON SAYS: U. S. Intelligence Reports Russia Wants Ten-Year Truce In Cold War; General Who Spent Money In Manila Wanted To Prevent Divorce; Meat Lobbyist Tries To Shush Up His Friendship With Benson.

WASHINGTON—Russia's sudden counter switch to a foreign minister's conference came just as two counter-switches were being made secretly by U. S. officials. They are as important as the sudden reversal by Moscow.

Counter-Switch No. 1 was an opinion by Allen Dulles, able head of Central Intelligence, that Russia sincerely does want a truce in the cold war. Hitherto Dulles brother of the secretary of state and a powerful opinion-molder for the White House, has not agreed with Harold Stassen that Russia really wanted disarmament.

Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow has agreed with Stassen and so have some of the under officials in the State Department. Now the potent recommendation of Allen Dulles joins them that Russia would like to ease tensions for as much as ten years. Dulles is not so cheerful about what may happen after ten years.

Counter-Switch No. 2 — Last week the State Department cabled secret instructions to Ambassador Thompson in Moscow to sound out the Russians on their conditions for a summit conference. Thompson was told to use his own discretion in quiet talks with the Soviet foreign office, but to make it absolutely clear Eisenhower would never agree to a summit conference unless the Kremlin agreed to some kind of preparatory talks at a lower level.

This was a switch for the Eisenhower administration which hitherto had demanded a foreign ministers' conference.

Hardly had Thompson delivered this message than the Soviet foreign minister came back with his switcheroo to a foreign ministers' conference.

Chief conclusion to be gained from all this maneuvering is that a summit conference will definitely be held this summer. It may be restricted, but it will be held.

Note—Stassen in his final report to the President suggested holding the summit conference in New York at UN headquarters with UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld sitting in; then inviting Bulganin and Khrushchev to the Gettysburg farm for personal talks. One problem Eisenhower faces in a summit conference is the difficulty of prolonged conversations. They tire him.

"BIDET" GENERAL

Inside fact about the recall of General John B. "Ack-Ack" Ackerman from one of the prize posts in the Air Force for spending too much money on frills, was that the general was trying to head off a divorce.

Married to one of the most beautiful and more wealthy women of Washington, Faith Donaldson D'Oench, the general had been separated when he was transferred to the Philippines. Mrs. Ackerman remained in Washington and for a time it seemed doubtful that she would join him.

Finally he persuaded her to effect a reconciliation and come to Manila. In Manila, Air Force headquarters were not exactly as in the Ackermans' well-appointed Virginia home along the banks of the Potomac, hence the orders for expensive furnishings, bidets, other extras, which aroused the cupid of other Air Force wives at Clark Field.

General Ackerman is considered one of the most brilliant young officers in the Air Force. He was picked by superiors as a man likely to end up as chief of the Air Force. Tragedy is that because of his attempt to keep a beautiful wife nappy in tropical

Manila, he's likely to end up with the name John "Bidet" Ackerman, not John Bevier Ackerman BENSON'S MEAT FRIEND

The meat lobby is so anxious to keep secret its relations with Secretary of Agriculture Benson that meat lobbyist Aled P. Davies tried to retaliate last week against the Chicago Daily News reporter who reported that he had advised Benson on how to answer attacks by Republican congress men.

Lobbyist Davies was in the National Press Club bar boasting how he helped write the statement Benson issued to the press, and how Ezra had phoned him for advice.

But when Chicago newsman William McGaffin started checking on Davies' boasts, Davies phoned to say that all statements made in the press club bar were off-the-record.

"Hog-wash," replied McGaffin, the newsman who dared ask Ike about his expensive helicopters. Later Davies announced he was filing a complaint against McGaffin with the club's board of governors.

The incident might be kissed off as press-club bar bickering were it not for the fact that Davies was appointed an official adviser of the Agriculture Department, and the secretary of agriculture has consistently favored the American Meat Institute for which Davies is the registered lobbyist.

When Benson supported the price of hogs, he left out the clause inserted by Secretary Brannan whereby the meat packers had to buy hogs from farmers at parity prices. Again when Benson supported beef prices, he left out the clause whereby the meat packers had to pay farmers parity prices.

Thus the price of pork and beef went down on the farm, while the price of pork and beef went up to the housewife. The meat packers, which Aled Davies represents, made the money. That's why it's news when Benson phones Davies to spend the evening drafting one of the most important statements Benson ever issued.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Commercials on radio and television often irk us because they break into the programs which we do not want to have interrupted. In spite of our annoyance we go forth and patronize the sponsors. We do appreciate the programs and likewise we appreciate the ones who make the shows possible.

The advertisers repeat their little commercials until the products and the shows become identified with each other. We develop a certain loyalty to the sponsors.

God keeps speaking to man through his conscience. His word makes its impression on us. We become annoyed sometimes with the interruption of our worldly ways, but we become more loyal to God than we realize. God stays with us whether we consciously want Him or not.

Only when we give our whole lives to God do we find peace of mind and soul. We need His love constantly.

As Sebastian turned to his horse, it was Capt. Judson Dillon who came up to him. As usual, Dillon's manner was curt and faintly edged with arrogance. He showed Sebastian the briefest of nods.

"You bring word of Phil Ashland?"

"That's right."

"He is still alive?"

"And going to stay so," Sebastian went into his saddle.

"When can he be moved?" Dillon asked.

Sebastian got out his pipe, began packing it. "There's no rush. Let's just be thankful that he pulled through."

"You're forgetting something, Sebastian. Sick or well, alive or dead, Phil Ashland belongs to the Army, subject to its care and decision."

Sebastian spoke dryly.

"The last official Army decision I recall concerning Phil Ashland was that he was sure to die. And I'm not holding the decision against the Army, either, for in the light of conditions as they were at the moment, it seemed entirely justified. The point is, however, that after the Army had given him up, some of us civilians, didn't."

"The Army didn't save Phil Ashland's life, Captain. Three devoted women at my ranch did. His sister Constance, Kitty Dutra and Mother Gayle. It's barely possible that Sam Lester and I can claim a bit of credit also. Phil will stay right where he is until ready to leave in his own good time."

Dillon's retort was brusque. "Phil Ashland will leave your place when Colonel Gilman puts through the order to have him removed to the hospital at Fort Klamath. An ambulance wagon will be sent for him."

Ward Sebastian crossed his hands on his saddle horn and leaned forward slightly as he stared down at Dillon. The lines of his face had toughened, his eyes chilling and pinching down a trifle.

"You wouldn't be figuring on pulling strings to hurry the matter up, would you, Captain? If so, I suggest you go a little slow. Should he be moved before he is able to stand it, and suffers a set back, you'll be one unpopular man with the Ashland family."

Back at the home ranch that evening, Sebastian faced Constance Ashland across the kitchen table, marveling at the resilience of this girl.

"It's off for Yreka in the morning," he told her. "If there is any thing you need for yourself or Phil, I'll have Helen Chesbro fix it up for you."

Color stole through her cheeks at the intension of his glance.

"Must you always be doing some thing for we Ashlands? And we already so deeply in your debt? Ward Sebastian, there would not be enough time in a thousand years for us to begin to repay you."

"I'm fully repaid just by you being here, and it will be rough to have you leave." He was still for a moment before adding gravely, "The ranch has always been a sort of refuge at the end of all the trails I travel. Yet I've never known the eagerness to return to it as now. Do you mind my saying that?"

"For saying something so nice? Of course not!" She held both her place and his glance.

In Yreka, Sebastian found Jeff and Helen Chesbro eager for first-hand news of the battle in the lava beds.

"There have been so many conflicting reports," Chesbro said. "One day the claim is that the troops won, the next it is that Kentippos and his Modocs did."

"You can believe the last," Sebastian said.

Jeff Chesbro shook a regretful head. "A bad business, no matter who wins. And Ward, Milo Biglow left word he'd like to see you."

Milo Biglow opened the door of the Biglow home at Ward Sebastian's knock, and reached for his hand.

"Heard you were in town, Ward, and have been waiting for you. Jeff Chesbro gave you the word?"

Sebastian nodded. "He did. Something in particular you wanted, sir?"

Biglow led the way into the living room, where he offered Sebastian a cigar and lighted one himself. "You may have heard that General Canby is coming in to negotiate peace with the Modocs?"

"Yes."

The faintest touch of pomposity came into Milo Biglow's manner. "I have been asked to serve as a member of a civilian peace commission to aid General Canby. Besides being close to the picture, you've also been an outspoken, realistic thinker on the problem. Therefore I'd like your opinion on the possibility of a satisfactory peace settlement."

Sebastian had been about to take a chair. Now he moved away from it, taking a couple of restless turns up and down the room. "There is no possibility of it."

"Surely you cannot be that positive?"

"I am. The Modocs will never consider a peace that does not guarantee them the right to return to their Lost River homeland and to remain there. And Washington will never agree to that reasonable solution. Any peace offered the Modoc will be based on the proposition that he consent to being corralled on some reservation far away from Lost River So, at the very beginning there exists an unbreakable deadlock."

The name hippopotamus means "river horse." It would be more correct, however, to call the animal a river pig. It belongs to the pig family and looks much more like a pig than a horse. Today only two species of this mammoth water-loving beast are left: the common hippopotamus and the pygmy hippopotamus of Liberia. Both species are found in Africa.

IAA President Urges Voters to Keep Eligible

Many voters won't be eligible to vote April 8 because they forgot to register, Otto Steffey, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, reminded citizens today.

"In the stress of today's space age, it's easy to forget one very important responsibility—to keep eligible to vote," continued the Illinois Farm Bureau leader.

There are several groups of people who must register by the March 10 deadline to be eligible for this year's primary election.

They include persons who are eligible to vote but have never registered; voters who have changed their names; voters who have become naturalized citizens; voters who have moved—even if just to the house next door; voters who will be 21 on or before April 8; and ex-servicemen who became 21 while in service.

You may register at your county clerk's office during the regular working hours at the county court house.

All voters must meet the residence requirements—one year in the state, 90 days in the county, and 30 days in the precinct on or before election day. This registration will also qualify voters for the November general election if no change in residence or name takes place. At the April 8 primary election, voters will choose their party nominees for many national, state, and county offices and will elect their party precinct committeemen.

"Because in some areas party nomination is tantamount to election, your responsibility in voting in the primary election is a serious one," asserted Steffey, Strong-hurst livestock and grain farmer.

"We must nominate the best men and women possible in the primary in order to be sure we have the opportunity to vote on good candidates in November."

Auto Production Off by Big Three

DETROIT AP—Car and truck production in the U. S. is down nearly 30 per cent for the first two months of the year, figures released by the big three showed today.

All three companies, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, showed big production drops from the 1957 rate. But General Motors, last year accounting for close to 48 per cent of production, this year claims 58 per cent.

Chrysler showed the biggest proportional drop in production. In January-February, 1957, Chrysler built 131,274 cars and trucks. This year it built 46,788.

Ford Motor Co. in the first two months of 1957 built 200,842 cars and trucks but this year has built only 130,491.

General Motors has produced 556,145 cars, trucks and buses compared with 649,241 last year.

Ford car production is down from 133,471 last year to 95,701.

Plymouth production this year is 27,146 compared with 65,641 last year.

Chevrolet is the only car make to top 1957 production, with 276,741 assemblies so far compared with 276,418 in 1957.

Cooling Off

SALT LAKE CITY — (UP) — Utah officials have credited a new 90-day cooling-off period required in divorce cases for cutting the state's divorce rate. During one recent month, the number of final decrees granted amounted to less than one-third those recorded in the same month a year ago.

In loving memory of Nellie M. Bradley who left us five years ago tonight, March 5, 1953.

When you were called away to rest,
God took you home on high.
Your memory lingers always
There's never a day or night
That I do not think of you.

But they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
we had together.

President Says Russia Suggests Talks in U. S.

Place Makes No
Difference, Ike
Tells Reporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower disclosed today that Russia has suggested holding an East-West summit conference in the United States.

The President said it would be a good idea, should such a meeting be called, to hold it in the United States if it were a long one. But he said the place would not make a great deal of difference in the case of a short meeting.

At the same time, the President repeated at his news conference U. S. insistence that a summit meeting be so well prepared in advance that there would be a reason to believe it would produce real progress toward easing of world tensions.

Anything less, he said, would be absolutely futile and damaging.

Door Still Open

The President endorsed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remarks of Tuesday rejecting latest Soviet terms for a foreign ministers' conference to prepare for a possible summit meeting. He said he had a long conversation with Dulles before the secretary of state spoke and that Dulles reflected his views.

Eisenhower went on to say he was sure Dulles did not mean to close the door on the possibility of a summit meeting.

The United States was reported wary of the Soviet offer. Informants said it could be another Russian "gimmick" aimed at showing Moscow's willingness to hold East-West talks without actually being ready to give up any basic Red policies.

It was pointed out the choice of Washington, Geneva or any other place for a heads-of-government meeting is a procedural matter and does not assure a successful conference.

However it was thought the Soviet suggestion might be aimed at meeting a frequent U. S. argument that the American President cannot be away from his capital for long because of his duties.

Judy Garland Charges Sid Luft In Divorce Suit

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Judy Garland's husband, Sid Luft, was charged with attempting to strangle the temperamental star in a divorce suit on file today in Santa Monica.

Miss Garland filed the action Tuesday, once again bringing to court the troubles which have marked the couple's marriage. The actress and Luft, a theatrical agent, were wed in June, 1951. Luft is Miss Garland's third husband.

She charged Luft with mental cruelty in a divorce suit filed in 1956, but the case was dropped. The actress accused Luft in the latest action of beating and attempting to strangle her on "many occasions, the last time on Feb. 21, 1958."

She requested a restraining order to prevent Luft from removing their children, Lorna, 5, and Joseph, 3, from the city, asked the court to evict Luft from their Beverly Hills home and demanded $4425 monthly in child support payments.

Mrs. Simon Ozee Dies in Hardin County

Mrs. Alice Ozee, 73, wife of Simon Ozee and a resident of the Hicktown community, died in the Hardin County General Hospital in Rosiclare at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. The body will lie in state at the Rose funeral home in Cave-in-Rock until the funeral at 1 p. m. Thursday in the Pleasant Hill church in Hardin county. Rev. Arthur Austin and Rev. Harley Rose will officiate and burial will be in the Ozee family cemetery.

Business Briefs

By United Press

The treasury announced that its newest 3 per cent bond issue was oversubscribed more than 500 per cent in one day of offering to the public. The issue was offered to improve the government's cash position and was possible under the temporary five-billion-dollar increase in the public debt limit enacted last week.

Installment debt fell by 368 million dollars during January, against a 259-million-dollar decrease in January, 1957, according to the Federal Reserve Board. On Jan. 31 installment debt outstanding stood at $33,700,000,000 or $2,200,000,000 ahead of the year-ago figure.

The average president of a major U. S. corporation earns $111,500 a year, but he'll never be a millionaire at that rate, not even if he holds his job for 45 years, Dun's Review and Modern Industry said his tax bite takes away 80 per cent. What he actually takes home are fringe benefits such as pensions, life and medical insurance and stock options.

program on the shelf to bring out in case the economic situation worsens. He said the situation changes from minute to minute and the kind of a tax cut, if there is one, would depend on the economic picture at the time it was decided upon.

Three Basic Philosophies

—He appeared encouraged by what he referred to as more congressional activity than normally about statehood for Hawaii and Alaska. He said it seems strange that it was such a controversial subject in view of the fact that both the Democratic and Republican platforms advocated it.

—He made clear that he will not support any GOP congressional candidates who oppose any of his three basic philosophies of government. He stated them as adequate national security, aid to free world allies to help turn back the wave of communism, and federal economic actions to keep the nation prosperous. But he said he expects to do some campaigning in support of GOP candidates with records of believing in such policies.

—He made clear that National Guardsmen are going to be kept at Little Rock's Central High School, regardless of cost, as long as necessary to make sure that federal courts cannot be defied successfully.

House Approves Funds for Post Office, Treasury

Today Is $13.8
Million Less Than
President's Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Tuesday approved a $4,081,080,000 money bill today to run the Treasury and Post Office departments in the fiscal year starting next July 1. The total was $13,861,000 less than President Eisenhower's request.

The measure was passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate. The House added $7,500,000—including four million dollars for the Coast Guard—to the amount recommended by its Appropriations Committee.

The Coast Guard funds included two million dollars to build a new dormitory at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., and an extra two million dollars for the Coast Guard reserves.

As approved the bill contains $704,627,000 for the Treasury, $5,266,000 more than President Eisenhower's request; $3,402,000,000 for the post office, a cut of $19,121,000; and $1,481,000 for the U. S. Tax Court, unchanged from the budget request.

The Senate Appropriation Committee also approved Tuesday a $2,866,048,216 supplemental money bill to finance various government activities for the remainder of the present fiscal year. The committee restored $2,804,000 for the Brussels and other international trade fairs which the House had knocked out.

The bill included authorization to increase soil bank payments from 500 million to 750 million dollars this year. The House added the provision to the administration's request to take care of a flood of applications by farmers.

The Senate committee restored a House cut of $1,920,000 for construction, equipment and salary increases for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, the government's top aviation research agency. Money added by the committee also included $795,000 for Senate investigations.

Garment Industry Ends Quarter Century of Labor Peace with Strike

First General
Walkout by Group Since 1933

NEW YORK (AP) — The bustling garment industry ended a quarter-century of labor peace today when 60,000 workers left their jobs in New York's garment district and marched to a Madison Square Garden rally.

The mass of workers, members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, poured out of the lofts along Seventh Avenue in what approached a carnival atmosphere. Twelve sound trucks whipped up their enthusiasm as they marched.

ILGWU President David Dubinsky and AFL-CIO President George Meany were to speak at the rally.

The strike is the first general strike in the vast garment industry since 1933. It was expected to affect a total of 105,000 workers in New York City and New York State, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Pennsyl-

Science Talk at Kiwanis Meeting By Edward Bell

Edward Bell, science teacher at the Harrisburg Junior high school, last night in an address before members of the Kiwanis club at the Masonic temple, discussed the increasing problem of teaching science in the schools.

He listed the 10 greatest developments in science last year, including the satellites by Russia and the U. S., men spending six months of winter at the South Pole, lowest temperature on record of 102 below zero, high altitude explorations including photos of the sun 80 miles up from earth, new development to stimulate vegetable growth, Asian flu, atomic power plant, new type glass, gasoline from oil shale.

The word science is as large as the universe itself and as small as the most remote electron, Mr. Bell stated. It involves every phase of human life, spiritually, economically and physically.

Teaching science in the Junior high is exploratory without specialization, Mr. Bell said. He told of the many answers given by pupils in response to what they wanted most from science.

In conclusion he said "Anything the human mind can think of is well within the realm of possibility."

President Robert Rushing gave a report of the chili supper held last week and thanked the Kiwanians and their wives who helped make it a success.

He also announced the club would take the traveling gavel to Cairo Tuesday evening, March 18. Club members will attend by bus and a good attendance is hoped for at the inter-club meeting.

Two Boys Steal Autos, One Is Killed in Race

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Two teenage boys stole a car early today, decided they needed another, stole a second car and began a race that minutes later killed one of them.

State police said Ray Brown, 15, and his companion, Mark Plump, 14, took the first machine from the Tom Waters body shop shortly after midnight and headed for Vandalia. But by the time they had reached Alhambra, Plump wanted his own car. So he stole one.

The two raced east on U. S. 40. They nearly reached Greenville.

But six miles west of that town, Plump lost control of his car and it somersaulted, throwing the boy to the road.

Brown stopped his auto, lifted his injured companion in, and returned to Alton.

Plump was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Carrier Mills, Norris City Win Openers

Harrisburg-Eldorado, Ridgway-Equality Tilts In Regional Tonight

Shawneetown and McLeansboro Lose First Round Games

Carrier Mills and Norris City won first round games in the Eldorado regional basketball tournament Tuesday night and will meet at 7 p. m. Thursday in the opening game of the semifinals.

First round play will be completed tonight with host Eldorado and Harrisburg playing at 7 p. m., followed by Ridgway vs. Equality. Tonight's winners will complete the semifinal session.

Tuesday's games went pretty well according to form—Carrier Mills won from Shawneetown with ease, 77-44, and Norris City and McLeansboro battled all the way before Norris City won out 51-50.

The decisions marked Carrier Mills' third verdict of the season over the young, inexperienced crew from Shawneetown. The Hamilton and White county teams also were meeting for the third time. McLeansboro had previously won by scores of 59-55 and 60-58. But Norris City won the game last night and still is very much alive in tournament competition.

Wildcats Begin to Move

Shawneetown opened the scoring on a free toss by Potter, the score was tied at 3-3 and 5-5 and with the clock showing 4:58 Shawneetown trailed only 8-7, then the winning Wildcats began to move and were never threatened thereafter. Carrier Mills led at the quarter 15-11 extended the lead to 34-20 at halftime and fattened the margin to 54-30 after three quarters.

Six players saw action for the winners and all broke into the scoring column. Three players were closely bunched in the scoring race, Vern Rollins and Gary Taborn each had 22 points and Jack Keene 19.

Jim Brazier and Jim Cox, a pair of sophomores, paced Shawneetown with 12 and 11 markers respectively.

The 'Cats shot at a 42.3 pace from the field, hitting 30 times in 71 tries and were real accurate at the free throw line, connecting 19 times and missing but three for a .864 average.

Foxes Take Early Lead

After missing a free toss early in the game Carrier Mills hit every try in the second and third frames, then missed two in the last quarter.

Shawneetown had a .232 average from the field, making good 13 times in 56 attempts. At the free throw line the Indians made 18 and missed seven.

McLeansboro's Foxes played a strong game on the boards in the early part of the second game and threatened to run away from Norris City, but couldn't shake the determined Cardinals.

Midway in the opening frame McLeansboro was in front 9-2 and made the seven-point margin hold up, leading 14-7 at the close of the period.

Early in the second quarter the Foxes supported a 19-9 advantage, then Norris City made a bid scoring nine consecutive points and pulled to a 19-18 deficit with the clock showing 4:32. With 1:35 to play the score was all tied at 23-23, but McLeansboro held a 29-25 lead at the halftime intermission.

In the opening minute of the third quarter the Foxes led 33-27, then Hamilton, Greathouse, Haddock and DeJarnett connected for fielders and Norris City was in front for the first time, 34-33, with the clock showing 3:40 to play in the frame.

Lead Changes

The score was later tied at 36-36 and when the breath-taking quarter ended McLeansboro led 40-38.

Tourney Sidelights

The crowd at the opening night of the Eldorado regional tourney was estimated at 1,700. Both sides of the big gym were well filled, but the ends were practically empty.

Officials are Noble Thomas of Mt. Vernon and Ernest Reynolds of Carterville. Another certified official—Taft Baker of Carterville—also is on duty.

'Baker works at the scorers' bench, assisting in keeping the official score. Al Adams, Eldorado coach, said "We thought it would be good to have a regular official from out-of-town at the bench. He can help on rules interpretations, if needed. Also, if for any reason either of the two officials on the floor can't carry on we would have a good man to take over."

A four county map hangs on the north wall of the gym with red lights designating the location of the participating teams—Harrisburg, Carrier Mills and Eldorado in Saline county, Ridgway, Equality and Shawneetown in Gallatin county, Norris City in White and McLeansboro in Hamilton.

As a team loses the light is turned off. The Shawneetown light was the first to be darkened, then came McLeansboro's. Two more will be "shot" out this evening.

All schools were well represented by peppy cheer leading squads, but the Shawneetown group continues to attract considerable attention, with the girls attired in their Indian maiden dress in keeping with the team name—Indians.
